The Reunion of the President's Family-Games and Club Meetings Take the Place of Dances-Some Coming Events-Weddings

Things have come to the accustomed standputs it, the "Lenten dissipations" seem a bit slow obtruding themselves on the public. It will not, however, be near as quiet later on as the evidences now would indicate. In a week or so, all the sewing clubs, Dorcas societies, reading clubs, music clubs, whist clubs, another clubs. , reading clubs, music clubs, whist clubs, hre clubs, French clubs, German clubs, Spanish clubs, emergency clubs, conversation clubs, history clubs, Del Sarte clubs, fencing clubs, bowling clubs, riding clubs, walking clubs, and everything else but dancing clubs, will be in running order. Some of them have kept up an active working existence all the winter in spite of the mecial demands on the part of the members.

Mrs. Wilmerding has had a French club meeting at her house one day each week all winter, when the latest good novels were read aloud by a professional reader. There has been just as commendable an attendance at two or three of the church sewing societies, at which a great amount of work has been accomplished. The bowling clubs are likely to be very success. been accomplished.

The bowling clubs are likely to be very successful again this Lent. There is just enough Bohemianism about the whole thing to give it a refreshing flavor after the champagne and terrapin of the winter. The charitably inclined are by no means idle, as the various entertainments already announced plainly show. A delightful program is embodied in the performance next Thursday afternoon at the National Theater, when "Old Love Letters," with Miss Riddle and Mr. Jack Webb, and "Box of Monkeys," with Miss Harter, Miss Painter, Miss Riddle, Mr. Webb and Mr. Buckley in the casts will be presented. In the minuet, in an act of the presented. In the minuet, in an act of the second play, the dancers will be a number of young ladies and gentlemen very prominent in society. The list of patronesses makes the entertainment a certain success. The Home for Incurables, one of the most deserving of the pity's charities, is the beneficiary.
The Washington Club may and doubtless will receive more attention from its members than they have found it possible to give it since last autumn. One part of the club flourishes, how-ever, and that is the card room. The ladies devoted to whist have never relaxed for a day scarcely their interest for a day scarcely their interest in their favorate game. It has been a strong in existence nearly a year. So far as the casual observer may notice, the only difference between that the Washington Club has a permanent abiding place. To its exercising and it has been distinguished by the casual control of the control of the casual control of ing place. To its everlasting credit, however, let it be said that none of the gossip of the season has first found words in the club. The talk at the Woman's Club evidently runs to talk at the Woman's Club evidently runs to certainties and not to hurtful gossip. Long may it remain so. Dinners and luncheons, musicales and con certs are the leading features of next week's program. Monday night the Corean charge d'affaires and Mrs. Ye will dine the Secretary of State and Mrs. Blaine. Tuesday night the Mexican minister and Madame Romero will enjoy the same pleasure at a large dinner that will be spread in the legation ball room. Mrs. Bugher gives a dinner the same night in honor of Mrs. McKee. Wednes-day Dr. and Mrs. Pope have invited their friends to a musicale at 7:45 p.m., and Mr. A. S. Sunday will find the White House family reunited. From the accounts sent home the President and Mrs. Harrison have greatly entoyed their ten days' vacation and the former only wishes that the exigencies of the public service would permit his remaining another week. The younger members of the household, Mrs. Mc-Kee and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Harrison, would have gladly joined them had not the engage-ments in which they were three deep pre-vented. Their dinner for Mr. De Lamar on Tuesday evening wound up the social func-tions at the White House for the present. Gen. Sherrill were among the guests. By the way, Mr. De Lamar does not intend to settle in this city. New York is his objective point, but he

Mrs. Harrison will keep a day as usual when she will be glad to see her friends. All the winter she has changed from Wednesday to York. Thursday as soon as it became generally known, and her friends were always advised of the and her friends were always advised of the change. The same plan will be continued, for if one day was kept to for any length the reception would amount to a public occasion.

Mrs. McKee's and Mrs. Russell Harrison's ball did not materialize after all and it would take a long chapter to tell why. Rumor says that a garden party will be substituted for it in the spring and the plan is generally commended by society, which has also the riding club and the flower market in its spring possibilities. Both are good and beautiful ideas, and each will tend to make the capital additionally attractive when the fine weather comes to stay. Mrs. Harrison's garden party is way ahead of them all in the fleeting fancies of the made. This debate promises to be made. Wm. Coleman, convicted of perjury on February 4, was sentenced to the Albany penitentiary for five years. An appeal to the court in General Term was noted by his counsel, Mr. French, who urged that friends had written letters showing that he was of fair reputation.

The court said he was not a first-class citizen notwithstanding the letters, and proof was clear as to his guilt. On the trial here he did not hesitate to perjure himself, and apparently did so only for the friendship he had with the principal. Perjury was becoming too prevand the sentences should not be light.

MR COMPTON AND THE DISTRICT. on Kegarding Appropriations. To the Editor of The Evening Star:

I ask as a matter of justice, in view of your editorial and the report of Mr. Weller's speech in your issue of yesterday, that you will pub that the only thing the sensible and responsible people of this District are concerned about in this controversy is this, viz: What is the right and justice of the matter? All personalities irrelevant. Now, for what pur-"To provide for improvements, the health of the people and the education of the children of the District?" As to how much should be so appropriated is a question about which all intelligent men and friends of the District may honestly differ. I deny that I made any threat as to the government's contribution to the capital's expenses. The national treasury is the goose that lays the golden egg for this District. I simply warned the people or their agents that they might by imprudent suggestions or demands reduce the size and value of that egg. I believed then, I size and value of that egg. I believed then, I know now, that the suggestion was timely, it was most certainly kindly meant. Shall it be forgotmost certainly kindly meant. Shall it be forgot-ten in dealing with appropriations by the general government at this juncture that we are in the presence of a deficit in the treasury, evidenced by the very best possible proof in the fact that the money is not on hand to pay outstanding obligations and keep up the sink-ing fund? Will it be denied that the burden of taxation does fall most heavily here, as every-where, upon the small property holder? And, as to the matter of the surplus raised by taxa-tion here resting and rusting in the governyoung author.

"Do you?" he said with some dismay. "You must have a heap of trouble dodging the waste baskets."
"Do you?" he said with some dismay. "You fancy ever created. How can this be while the District is the debtor of the government. ernment, and the government without sufficient money on hand to meet its obligations.

The best use ever made of a surplus dollar in the pocket of an individual or a corporation was and is the payment of a debt therewith. If the revenue raised by taxation in this District the revenue raised by taxation in this District is over and above the requirements of an honestly and economically administered government let the rate of taxation be reduced, and you will have fewer of your people seeking homes outside of the District. Every democrat at least will subscribe to the doctrine thatevery dollar raised over and above the legitimes we of within the control of the co the legitimate use of public money is robbery of the tax payer. So far as Mr. Weller is concerned, let him settle with the republican Secretary of the Treasury, who recommended to Congress a reduction of over $1,000,000 of the mates submitted by the Commissioners, and then he will be in a position to complain con-sistently of me for thinking their estimates extravagant.

In conclusion I have only this to say: I have demonstrated in the past my regard for the substantial welfare of the District. One evi-dence of this abides and will abide when we are forgotten, I introduced and pressed to its passage the bill appropriating $100,000 toward erecting the spiendid bridge which spans the eastern branch of the Potomac at the foot of Pennsylvania avenue. I could point to many other improvements I have in an humble way helped to pass through Con-gress since I have been honored with a seat in the House. My regard for the District shall not be lessened, nor will I be deterred from any vote or pursuing any course my judgment may approve by harsh or unjust criticism from any quarter. I am very respectfully yours, BARNES COMPTON.

A YOUNG MAN SANDBAGGED.

Persons residing in the neighborhood of 8th and P streets northwest were greatly excited last night over a murderous assault that was committed on Frank Miller, a young man who lish the following: In the first place let me say has been paying attentions to a young lady residing in that locality. Miller, who is not yet twenty years old, is a son of Mr. Miller, a poultry dealer in the O street market, who lives at No. 1326 6th street. The assault was committed by a colored man or by a white poses, let me ask, should appropriations be man who had blacked his face. The police are made other than those I enumerated, namely, of the opinion that the man was colored and to provide for improvements, the health of the man. Love and jealousy seem to have prompted the act so far as the police have been able to learn, for last week Miller received the following threatening letter: "Washington, D. C., Feb. 26, 1892.

"Frank: You are going with a young lady on 8th street and she is a friend of mine, and some day I intend to have her. I will give you one more week to so with her, and if you don't stop I intend to kill you, and if I can't have her I will kill her, too. I mean everything I say. A THREATENING LETTER.

The young lady referred to also received a letter. Her mother is a widow and is employed in the government printing office.

The letter received by the young lady reads: THE TOUNG LADT WARNED.

"When I do intend to kill him before your eves."

"Washinston, D. C., Feb. 22, 1892.

"Washinston, D. C., Feb. 22, 1892.

I wrote a letter to Frank and told him if he did not stay away I was going to kill both or you. I made a mistake. I do not intend to harm you, but intend to kill him. I know he is dead in love with you and it would be hard for him to stop, so if you do not care for him or think anything of him it will pay you to stop him, for it will cost him his life if he keep on. I will set acquainted with you some day, but you will never know me.

"ONE WHO IS IN LOVE."

The young man showed his letter to the lady, but never did he dream that any attempt would be made to put the threat in execution. He also knew of the letter received by the lady and he had mentioned the fact to a few intimate friends. Last evening he left home to call upon the young lady and then he thought he would appear on the streets, as the week stated in the letter had about expired, and see whether any attempt would be made to injure him.

Early last December the District committees whether any attempt would be made to injure him.

STRUCK WITH A SANDBAG.

When he reached P street just around the corner from the lady's honse it was about 7:30 o'clock and on that square were three young white men and the one with the black face. The latter dealt young Miller a blow with what was undoubtedly a sandbag and stunned him. He was unable to make any outcry, but he staggered along the sidewalk a short distance, when a second blow on the back of his head knocked him to the pavement. The three white men and the one who had committeed the murderous assault fled and escaped arrest.

A colored woman who witnessed the affect.

Early last December the District committees secured accommodations for 300 persons at the Hotel Vendome, corner 41st and Broadway. The convention will be held in the Madison Square Garden Amphitheater, 26th and Madison avenue, which will be so arranged by the New York committee that it will seat nearly 20,000 persons. The amphitheater is within easy walking distance of the hotel and is quickly reached by the Broadway surface line. This building is one of the finest of its kind in the world, and costs the committee $1,600 per day. Each delegation will have its headquarters at the botel where it is quartered, and a complete registry system will be kept so that friends in other delegations can be readily found. A colored woman who witnessed the affair will probably be able to give some information as to the identity of the men, as will a colored man, who was heard to tell the woman to keep quiet.

Policemen Jennings and Barnes soon arrived upon the scene and took the injured man, who was unconscious at that time, to his home, where Dr. Bradfield attended him.

This morning the patient was much better, although unable to leave his bed.

Of microbes (micro-organisms) is a mighty host, which indeed no man can number. Invisible to the naked eve, the poisonous part of this army is the cause of four-fifths of all the diseases of the human family—they destroy more lives than war, famine, fire, murder and ship wreck combined. The way to relieve the human body of these microbes is to take Swift's Specific. When this medicine gets well into the system the poisonous germ must leave—he cannot exist there, hence he seeks an exit through the pores of the skin. After he departs a continued use of the Specific will force out the poison, and the patient is well.
